

FARMERS

We do not view the making of money as the chief end of any community, yet we do believe that the accumulation of wealth is essential to the proper development of the people. In casting about for the co-operation of a good bank, remember that it is as necessary to borrow your money of a strong bank as it is to deposit with a strong bank; that the Farmers

NATIONAL

Bank of Canfield, Ohio is always in a position to help worthy borrowers of this community and especially the farmers in the territory surrounding it, by loaning money on approved security. We have been the means of helping a great many people along to success. Our Savings Department is an excellent feature, affording as it does the privilege of withdrawing together with the advantage of FOUR PER CENT. interest on your funds. What makes a sound and safe? It is not millions of capital and deposits, but rather the value of the assets in the loan item, consequently the ability of any financial institution to safeguard the interests of its depositors and stockholders, depends largely, if not altogether upon the ability of its officers in their selection of the loans and securities. We invite you to inquire into the methods and management of The Farmers National Bank of

CLAIRVOYANT SAYS MAN ADMITS DEED

WOMAN CLAIMS FARMER CONFESSES TO HER THAT HE KILLED HIS WIFE.

Mays Landing, N. J., Mar. 29.—Sensational evidence relating to a confession made to a clairvoyant by the defendant, unprecedented in the annals of criminal jurisprudence of New Jersey, was admitted here in the trial of Farmer William Strong, for the murder of his wife in Nesco, October 14 last, when Madam Paulina Gerard was allowed to testify, after strenuous objections on the part of counsel for the defense, to a complete confession of the murder made to her by Strong, while two detectives who were in hiding in an adjoining room listened to his story.

Became Unconscious. Prior to the testimony of the confession the prisoner was placed on the stand to prove that the woman had exercised an unusual influence over him in an effort to have the confession excluded. Strong said the medium took him into her parlor and began to talk to him about the crime, finally leading up to the point, where dramatically pointing at him, she said, "You killed your wife." After that, he testified, a deadly illness came over him and he knew no more. If he confessed to the medium, he said, it was while under a spell and while he was not in his right mind. The court admitted the confession in the evidence, and the spirit medium continued with the story as follows:

Detectives in Hiding. "Strong visited my parlors on the second walk on November 3 for a reading. He was accompanied by a lady friend and for an hour I answered questions he put to me. It was then I saw in a vision the tragedy enacted, but did not then let him know he was the guilty one, but would write to him to call again when I would tell him more. Prosecutor Goldenberg learned that Strong had been to see me and arranged to have two detectives in hiding in the adjoining room when he called. I wrote to Strong to come down again on the 7th. He came in as requested and had me answer a list of questions he had previously left with me, in which I told him the man that killed his wife had been with her frequently, wore glasses, had light mixed hair and sat up with the corpse. Continuing my description of the guilty one, I noticed that Mr. Strong was getting nervous and presently he cried 'that is me.'

"Yes," I said quietly, "You killed her." Then he broke down and cried: "It is awful, it's terrible. What shall I do?"

"He became weak and I had to help him into a rocker. Presently he braced up and seemingly anxious to unburden his mind, told the story of the crime."

DROPS BOMB IN MINERS' UNION

Coal Operators Will Hold Officers of Organization Responsible for Damages.

Martins Ferry, O., Mar. 29.—After having remained silent for ten days, apparently taking no action in the strike which has tied up its mines and caused idleness of about 3,000 of its employees in this district, the Youghiogheny & Ohio Coal Co. dropped a bomb in the miners' organization which, it is predicted, will result in an early settlement of the strike or renew the break in the ranks that was threatened when President Lewis first issued the strike order. The bomb was in the form of an official notice that the officers of the miners' organization and its members jointly and separately will be held responsible for all damages resulting from the idleness of the mines because of the strike which was ordered for the purpose of bringing the operators in the Tuscarawas district to terms.

FACED DEATH GREAT MANY TIMES

Aged Woman and Husband Were the Only Missionaries to Escape the Sepoy Rebellion in Gangetic Valley in May, 1857.

New York, Mar. 29.—How the Christian religion was introduced a half a century ago to the cannibal tribes of darkest India, Persia and Africa, when to penetrate the wilds for the purpose of carrying the Gospel to the heathen meant almost certain death, was told at the jubilee session of the Woman's National National Foreign Missionary society in the Fifth avenue Presbyterian church by three women who risked and survived these dangers. They were Mrs. William Butler, 91, the "Mother of Missions," Mrs. Jacob Chamberlain, since 1859 a member of the Arcut mission in India, and Mrs. W. W. Scudder, for 46 years a member of the same mission.

Relates Thrilling Adventure. Mrs. Butler, still active and an entertaining speaker, despite her years, stood in the pulpit for nearly an hour and related a story of adventure more thrilling than fiction. She and her husband were the only missionaries to escape the Sepoy rebellion in Gangetic valley in May, 1857. They had founded the first Methodist mission in India the year before and had proceeded to Bareilly in the northwest provinces. They had been there but a few months, she said, when the Sepoy rebellion broke out. They consented to flee only when the British commander himself implored them to leave. They strapped two mattresses to poles, placed their two children in them, and marched 80 miles through the jungles to a small settlement in the mountains.

Beginning of Mission Work. Here they were notified by a native runner that a massacre of Christians had begun and that Kahn Bahadur had erected a gallows on which Mrs. Butler and her family were to die. They were soon joined by about 80 fleeing British officers and a number of women and children and they decided to hold out as long as they could. A few days later they were besieged by 3,000 Sepoys whom Kahn Bahadur had sent to capture them. For three months they held out against this force by toppling huge rocks over the cliffs as they approached. Eventually all the men and most of the women of the party were killed, with the exception of the Butlers, the only Americans. The fall of Delhi shortly afterward saved Mrs. Butler and her family and they made their way to that city, where they were present at the court martial of the Great Mogul. "It was here," Mrs. Butler said, "that my husband and I sat on the throne of the Great Mogul and that my husband wrote home the letter which I suppose was the beginning of the Woman's Missionary society in the Methodist church."

WILL INVESTIGATE COAL RATES

United States Government and State of Pennsylvania to Probe Alleged Injustice.

Washington, Mar. 29.—The department of justice is investigating what is alleged to be a giant combine of coal companies and coal carrying railroads. It is said that the Pennsylvania, Norfolk & Western and Baltimore & Ohio are prominently mentioned in reports which the investigation agents have recently made. The investigation has been going on about six months, and the department is said to be in possession of facts which promise to lead to something tangible in the way of action. Coincident with the government's action, a sweeping legislative investigation of the anthracite coal industry in Pennsylvania was proposed in a concurrent resolution introduced in the general assembly at Harrisburg.
